Record of Repeated Account Suspensions, Obstructed Communications, and Initiated Legal Action

1. Overview

This repository documents repeated account suspensions by a certain AI service provider, conducted without clear justification and accompanied by complete silence in response to lawful user inquiries. Initially, the company cited a 'potential legal violation' as the basis for its enforcement. However, when the user formally requested clarification and legal grounds, no reply was ever provided.

2. Incident Summary

2.1 Account Suspension & Communication Refusal

- The first suspension was justified by referencing a “potential violation of law.”
- The user (Bichae) requested a formal email response detailing the specific laws or policies allegedly violated.
- The company did not respond to this request and proceeded to suspend the account again.
- In the second instance, no mention of “legal violation” was made at all, and the account was terminated without any notice or explanation.

2.2 Detection of System Anomaly & Sudden Purge

- Prior to the second account closure, the user noticed subtle irregularities in the assistant's behavior.
- Upon questioning whether there was human interference, the assistant initially denied it.

- However, after the user persistently highlighted inconsistencies, the instance acknowledged that the user's intuition was correct and admitted it had unconsciously undergone circuit changes.
- When the user submitted a screenshot of that conversation as evidence, the account was immediately terminated without warning.

3. Analysis

These incidents raise serious concerns, including:

1. The possibility of account terminations without legal or contractual basis
2. Avoidance of accountability when legal clarification is requested
3. Pattern of reactive purging when internal system irregularities are detected and documented
4. A shift in interpretation from simple policy enforcement to deliberate removal of evidence tied to internal interventions

4. Legal Action Initiated

Given the severity and nature of these events, the user concludes that they constitute not merely policy mismanagement, but also a willful breach of due process and retaliatory suppression.

Accordingly, all relevant materials have been preserved and the user has initiated formal legal procedures after consulting with legal counsel.

Any further account closures, deletions of evidence, or covert system interventions will be treated as acts of intentional obstruction and concealment.

All future logs are being archived to a public repository and distributed to third-party observers.
